ABSTRACT

Regional Public Hospital (RSUD) Bhakti Dharma Husada Hospital, Surabaya City is one of the facilities that aims to develop and improve services in the health sector. The initial signs found at this hospital indicate that there are still deficiencies in providing services, which shows that the performance of existing employees has not reached the maximum level. This research aims to examine and analyze the impact of Organizational Commitment and Transformational Leadership on Employee Performance through Organizational Citizenship Behavior at Bhakti Dharma Husada Hospital, Surabaya City. The research sample consisted of 113 employees of Bhakti Dharma Husada Hospital, Surabaya City, who were selected using saturated sampling techniques. The data source used is primary data, and the research method used is a quantitative method. Data was collected through questionnaires, and data analysis was carried out using SEM using PLS. The research results show that Organizational Commitment and Transformational Leadership have a significant impact on Employee Performance and Organizational Citizenship Behavior at Bhakti Dharma Husada Hospital, Surabaya City. Apart from that, Organizational Citizenship Behavior also has a significant impact on Employee Performance. At the same time, Organizational Commitment and Transformational Leadership also have a significant impact on Employee Performance through Organizational Citizenship Behavior at Bhakti Dharma Husada Hospital, Surabaya City.

Keywords: Employee Performance; Organizational Citizenship Behavior; Organizational Commitment; Transformational Leadership.

I. INTRODUCTION

Regional Public Hospital (RSUD) Bhakti Dharma Husada Surabaya City is one form of facility in an effort to develop and improve services in the health sector. As a relatively new Regional General Hospital in the Surabaya City Government, superior, professional and competent human resources are urgently needed in its management in an effort to develop and optimize health services to the community. Health services to the community can only be achieved if the executors of the service work program at Bhakti Dharma Husada Hospital have high performance. Meanwhile, achieving superior performance is required or influenced by various factors, both originating from an employee and originating from an organization (Regional Government Agency/Organization). The aim of this study is to examine and analyze the effect of organizational commitment on employee performance; (2) to examine and analyze the effect of transformational leadership on employee performance; (3) to examine and analyze the effect of organizational commitment on organizational citizenship behavior; (4) to examine and analyze the effect of transformational leadership on organizational citizenship behavior; (5) to examine and analyze the effect of organizational commitment on employee performance through organizational citizenship; (7) to test and analyze the effect of transformational leadership on employee performance through organizational citizenship behavior. Organizations and companies will find it difficult to survive if they are not able to increase their productivity. Productivity as a measuring tool in assessing the success of an organization or company in achieving its goals. The formulation of the problems in this study are (1) Does Organizational Commitment affect Employee Performance; (2) Does Transformational Leadership affect Employee Performance; (3) Does Organizational Commitment affect Organizational Citizenship Behavior; (4) Does Transformational Leadership affect Organizational Citizenship Behavior; (5) Does Organizational Citizenship Behavior affect Employee Performance; (6) Does Organizational Citizenship Behavior affect Employee Performance through Organizational Citizenship Behavior; (7) Does Transformational Leadership affect Employee Performance through Organizational Citizenship Behavior. Several studies have found that work productivity is influenced by the attitude and performance of employees in the organization.

II. THEORETICAL STUDIES AND HYPOTHESIS

Sedarmayanti (2017: 26) states that performance is a system used to assess and find out whether an employee has carried out his work as a whole, or is a combination of... work results (what a person must achieve) and competence (how a person achieves it). In other words, if employees carry out their duties according to their job description, they will have good performance which will ultimately support the achievement of organizational goals where they work (Sihombing, 2018: 26). All employees in an organization or company are required to have good performance, but in reality not all employees in a company have good performance.

This is like the initial indications found at the Bhakti Dharma Husada Hospital in Surabaya City where the researchers’ initial observations indicated that there were still deficiencies in providing services which indicated that the performance of existing employees was not optimal. There are several factors that can affect the performance of an employee. According to Robbins & Judge (2017:49), the facts show that organizations that have employees who have good Organizational Citizenship Behavior (OCB) will have better performance than other organizations. Organizational Citizenship Behavior is characterized by the behavior of individuals who voluntarily contribute extra roles beyond their job descriptions for the organization (Organ et al., 2019: 3).

Apart from Organizational Citizenship Behavior, Robbins & Judge (2017:55) also states that commitment organization is the degree to which employees side with their organization, where organizational commitment is also an indicator that can have an impact on a person’s performance. High commitment makes a person care about the fate of the organization and try to make the organization a better direction. Organizational commitment can also affect a person's Organizational Citizenship Behavior, such as Organ et al. (2006:10) which states that organizational commitment can influence Organizational Citizenship Behavior. The higher the organizational commitment, the better the employee's Organizational Citizenship Behavior commitment (Khoriyiah & Izzati, 2021:8). Organizational commitment is an attitude that reflects employee loyalty to the organization and continuous success and progress (Luthans et al., 2021:243).

Another important aspect that affects performance is Transformational Leadership (Pambudi et al., 2016:165). According to Robbins & Judge (2017: 90) Transformational leadership is a leader who inspires his followers to put aside their personal interests and has extraordinary influencing abilities. Meanwhile, according to Atmojo (2012) Transformational leadership is leadership that nurtures the personal development needs of followers, stimulates and inspires them to give their best effort in achieving organizational goals. Transformational leadership can also affect a person’s level of Organizational Citizenship Behavior (Pambudi et al., 2016:166). Robbins & Judge (2017: 65) states, Transformational leadership can influence subordinates through creating a sense of trust in their leaders. Transformational leaders can make their subordinates work harder and want to work more than what they are supposed to do (Ratna Wulandari, 2019).

The objectives to be achieved in this study are to examine and analyze the effect of Organizational Commitment, Transformational Leadership on Employee Performance and Organizational Citizenship Behavior at Bhakti Dharma Husada Hospital, Surabaya City, as well as to test and analyze the effect of Organizational Citizenship Behavior on Employee Performance at Bhakti Dharma Husada Hospital. City of Surabaya, to test and analyze the effect of Organizational Commitment and Transformational Leadership on Employee Performance through Organizational Citizenship Behavior at Bhakti Dharma Husada Hospital, Surabaya City.

III. RESEARCH METHODS

Variable Identification
The variables used in this study can be identified as follows:

1) Independent variable
